The Amasa Bishop Summer Study Abroad Prize is a fellowship that funds students to study abroad during the summer months in an organized study abroad program for two up to ten weeks. Programs should be run by reputable universities, non-profit or private-sector organizations. No independent, self-designed study or research is eligible nor does this fellowship fund internships. The Amasa Bishop fellowship was established by the Bishop family in honor of Dr. Amasa Bishop, who graduated from Caltech with a B.S. in physics in 1943. Dr. Bishop served as Chief of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission's Controlled Thermonuclear Branch and went on to become the Atomic Energy Commission's European Scientific representative. This award honors Dr. Bishop's understanding of the need for scientists and engineers to gain exposure to international issues and cultures.

Previous winners have spent two weeks studying the language and culture in the changing technological landscape of Japan, six weeks immersed in French life, and four weeks exploring the natural wonders and underlying geology of Tibet and Nepal. More examples of the types of study supported by the Bishop fellowship are available in the FASA Library and can be reviewed during regular office hours.

Applicant Requirements:

1. Current Freshmen, Sophomores, or Juniors with a 2.8 and above GPA may apply and must be enrolled at Caltech for the winter and spring term of the current academic year.
2. Applicants must be in good standing – no disciplinary problems or ongoing issues. Applicants may not be on leave from Caltech for the current year or fall following the summer abroad.
3. U.S. citizens, permanent residents and international students may apply. Note applicants cannot study in a country in which they hold citizenship or are a permanent resident.
4. Students must be at least 18 years old at time of application.
5. All students applying must be fully vaccinated with a WHO approved vaccine. No religious or medical exceptions. (Note: Awarded fellows will be required to receive a booster at least one month before departure if they have previously not received one yet.)
6. Only individuals may apply (no pairs).

Students apply for funding for a summer study abroad program of their own choosing.

This award will fund study in an approved program for 2 to 10 weeks. Applicants should propose a budget not to exceed $7000. The budget must include airfare, fees, housing, and all other costs. If proposing a trip for 5 weeks or longer, this is intended to be the major focus of the applicant's summer. Note that it is possible to combine two study programs, e.g. two weeks of language study followed by four weeks of a subject program. However, the programs must be in the same city or location and must be a concurrent program or offered directly after the first program; no extended break between the end of the first and start of the second program. This option can be done before or after a summer research position or summer job. One to two fellowships will be available each summer.

What the Bishop Summer Study Prize/Fellowship Covers:

Roundtrip airfare and all tuition fees and living expenses as proposed in the student's budget request (see application procedures below), up to the maximum amounts specified $7,000. The Bishop award covers all approved costs after a winner(s) is selected. No expenses are ever reimbursed or refunded to students including ones made in advance, i.e. any application fees, program deposits, or other registration costs.

Within this budget, applicants can request funds for extra travel within the country/area of their study program. The awarding of such additional funds is at the discretion of the selection committee. Student is allowed to propose additional travel such as weekend trips arranged by the program, a 7-day max trip within the country, or pre-planned day trips within the city that the student is staying in for the program. Personal funds can be used to fund day or weekend trips. Any additional travel outside of the study program area needs to be within a 2-hour train ride or 1 hour flight, and ideally within the country or region of study.

We do not guarantee funds for travel. You may propose it, but it may or may not be awarded.

A complete and detailed budget that breaks down the cost of the program into components such as tuition, fees, meals covered, additional meal costs, estimated round-trip travel, and books is required. See detailed application information below.

Note that Bishop funds cannot be used to pay elective personal costs such as cell phone rental or charges or to purchase equipment such as cameras, travel guides, etc. Bishop funds do not cover costs associated with the following: visas, passports, health insurance, inoculations, souvenirs, etc. Airport transfer transportation funds may be granted if funds allow. Up to $200 of Bishop funds may be used for travel insurance but it must be a policy pre-approved by FASA that includes the minimum required amount for medical evacuation coverage. Students must provide a copy of 2 travel insurance policy options they are looking to enroll in when they apply, along with the cost quotes for their trip.

Also note that travel before or after the program funded by the Bishop should be done independently (i.e., students cannot meet up with friends or family to travel together, students cannot have a girlfriend or boyfriend join them for travel, etc.). All travel funded by the Bishop Fellowship should be for the purpose of self-education and students are expected to return home or to Caltech after travel if such travel occurs at the end of the program.

Application Procedures

1. Application Part I and Part II (available in our office and online) must be completed as well as submitting the proposal and the detailed budget proposal form. These sections require the applicant to provide the name of the program, country and city of study, sponsoring organization/university, start and stop dates, fees, site of study, host university, type of living accommodations, etc.
2. Students must submit the Detailed Budget Proposal Form, Application Part II.
 - Submit a separate, itemized budget lines for airfare, program tuition, room, board/food, living expenses (such as laundry), local travel, etc.
 - Note that extra personal travel before or after the program is not permitted during the pandemic. Any extra travel you propose for during the time of your program may or may not be approved by the committee.
 - Also note you must breakdown the program cost into components such as meals, tuition, fees, excursions, etc. by location giving a total and daily cost. If this information is not listed on the program's web site, then telephone them or email them to obtain it.

- Do not supply a summary figure. Specify each expense. You will provide a grand total for your budget request.
 - Note that it is important to obtain cost information or estimates for the coming summer – do not base your budget on the previous summer’s costs. Contact your prospective program to obtain the costs for this summer.
 - Airfare can be estimated based on an online search. Please provide an average of three airfares, i.e., not only the lowest airfare you find, because such fares may not be available come time of purchase. No flights with overnight connections permitted. Only travel to/from major airports with major air carriers. Flight to your program destination must be leaving from a country that is at least 70% vaccinated or departing from the US or Canada. Student must return to the US or home country after the end of the Bishop Fellowship. No further travel allowed.
 - Students must show in their budgets the exchange rate at the time of submission, as well a quote of the highest, lowest and average exchange rates over the past 12 months. Students should be aware that a fluctuating exchange rate can significantly affect their travel plans!
3. Applicants must write an essay describing why he/she is seeking this experience. The applicant's goals should reflect the ideals of Dr. Bishop and reflect in some way his interests in the importance of global interaction and experience, the environment, and his love of science. An article on Dr. Bishop is also available in our office.

Applicants should also describe their proposed program of study, the number of weeks of the program’s duration and what they hope to gain from the summer intellectually and personally. Applicants should comment on how the program will enhance or positively impact their academic and/or career goals.

4. YOU MUST ALSO SUBMIT A COPY OF THE PROGRAM BROCHURE OR THE WEB PAGE THAT PROVIDES INFORMATION ON THE PROGRAM AND A GOOD DESCRIPTION OF WHAT THE PROGRAM ENTAILS AS WELL AS PROGRAM COSTS. Books reviewing study abroad programs and travel are available in our office library. Also, you can use <http://www.iiepassport.org> to search for study abroad programs. You can also find information on student and budget travel on the FASA website, <http://www.fasa.caltech.edu>, or see examples in our office. If current information is not available, information from the previous summer with an estimate (obtained from the program organizers) should be submitted. Applicants are advised to call programs if they cannot find information online or obtain it via email.
5. Information on program health resources and copies of two travel insurance policies that you are looking at enrolling into for your time abroad. You must include the coverage details and the calculated cost to cover your specific trip (include this also in your budget) proposal. The policies must include emergency and urgent care in the country you will be, as well as medical evacuation coverage with a minimum of $50-100,000. It could also be a personal health policy if it meets the required international coverage. Students must also provide details on any health resources provided by the program or how the program refers students to health resources if needed. Program must also share specifics on how a student can obtain Covid testing, just in case.
6. Country Specific Synopsis: Include a summary that lists any visas or vaccinations you are required to obtain independently beforehand, state seasonal weather threats for the area you are travelling to, any Covid/quarantine entry requirements, as well as detail any travel advisories the country may have listed on the Travel.State.gov site:
\(https://travel.state.gov/content/travel/en/traveladvisories/traveladvisories.html/\).

7. A current transcript from Caltech and any other university at which the applicant has been a full-time student must be submitted.
8. Two letters of reference are required from Caltech faculty, lecturers, instructors, graduate TA's, postdocs, or administrators. Reference forms are available in the FASA office and on the FASA website. Peer references or references from family or friends are not allowed.
9. Proposals must be applicant's own work and words, not copies of other itineraries, unless properly citing other sources.

Program Requirements:

1. Applicants may only apply for formal programs – no independent study is allowed. The Bishop award can only be used for classroom based or structured learning study abroad programs sponsored by bona fide universities, language schools (e.g. Languages Abroad — <http://www.languagesabroad.com>), or non-profit education agencies such as the Institute for International Education (see the IIEPassport link above).
2. Programs must be academic.
3. The study program must be in one country and city only, to minimize risk. That country must have a 70% vaccination rate or higher.
4. The Bishop must be your primary summer activity for a program of 5 weeks or longer.
5. The Bishop Award cannot be held in conjunction with a Caltech SURF, unless the study period is before or after the SURF or your mentor allows the applicant to take a leave from research for the study period. Applicants should explain this in their proposal and obtain an email or letter from their SURF mentor explaining the terms of the leave. As previously stated, Bishop recipients cannot simultaneously hold a Bishop Award and another award funding summer study or travel.
6. Students may travel for a maximum of seven days during the study period. Students may request funds for weekend travel arranged by the program or day trips within the program city, which will count towards the seven-day maximum.
7. Note that any Bishop funded travel must be done in the country in which you choose to study.
8. The proposed program must provide housing organized by the program. Housing can be in dormitories, home stays, apartments or hotels. Housing arranged by the student will not be allowed. Homestays must be organized through the official program.
9. The proposed program must have at least four hours of daily academic activities, e.g., classes, fieldtrips, lectures, etc. Program must have at least 10 weekdays of instruction, not counting the arrival and departure days.
10. Language study must be a component of the program in countries in which English is not one of the official languages. Exceptions will be made for archaeology related programs. Also, some field programs or science/technology programs are permitted as long as a cultural component is part of the program. Students may study in an English-speaking country, but the program must have a strong cultural component to their program, e.g., be taking classes in literature, politics, history, etc., of that country.
11. Language study must be offered and administered by a program – not self-arranged tutoring. Daily language study is preferred, but if a student is taking several other classes, a minimum of eight hours of instruction per week is required. If language study is the main focus, at least four daily hours of active instruction are required.
12. Students may combine two programs if they would like to extend their stay in a country, or if they need to add a language component to another program. For example, there is a History of Flamenco Dance program in Spain that does not offer Spanish language classes. The student could enroll in a Spanish language class before the dance program, or concurrently. If before, the program must be at least 5 days. If concurrent, the program must offer at least eight hours per week of instruction. If applying for two programs, they must not compromise one another (students must attend ALL classes/activities). The two programs must be in the same country, but different cities are ok if the language precedes the other program. The two may be split by independent travel if the applicant so chooses.

13. Students may not solicit or obtain funding from any other funding source to fund any aspect of their activities abroad as a Bishop Fellowship winner. Students may not use personal funds to contribute to tuition or any other program costs. Students may provide a maximum of $500 to cover personal expenses. Air miles may be used to supplement or pay for travel. Students may not combine the Bishop with funds from another grant or prize, e.g., the Studenski, Housner Fund, etc.
14. Some summer programs begin as early as late May, but these are not allowed, as study cannot conflict with the end of Caltech's third term. Nor can programs go beyond the start of the fall term.
15. Note that students may not do internships that are equivalent to work experience and work in for-profit organizations is never allowed. Some programs offer an internship component that is more akin to a structured learning experience. Students who wish to apply to a program with an internship or field component should submit a complete hard copy description to FASA as part of their application and clearly describe what the field or internship entails and clearly indicate why this aspect of the proposed program is academic in nature and not simply a work experience.
16. The program may be in any country of the world including English-speaking countries. Students may go on a program that is located in a country with a travel advisory, but you must provide the information detailing it in your application. It must not have civil unrest or warfare. Level 3 or 4 level only related to Covid and country must have at least 70% vaccination rate. For a list of countries currently under warning, go to: http://travel.state.gov/travel/cis_pa_tw/tw/tw_1764.html.
17. Destination country must not require a quarantine of over 48 hours upon arrival.
18. The study program, aside from the language/cultural requirements, may have study in areas such as economics, public policy, environment, science or engineering, architecture, photography, fine arts, anthropology, sociology, psychology or history. Courses in science, engineering, or mathematics are allowed provided they are secondary to the cultural component of the proposed study program.
19. While students cannot take classes for credit, they are required to take them for a grade or other assessed mark versus pass/fail, unless the classes are only taught pass/fail. A discussion of the grading must be made in their proposal with a list of the options from the program's website or email. Applicant must provide the program's grading details and what rubrics are used for successful completion.
20. Students should provide information on whether the program provides credit automatically if a student wishes to transfer credit, if there is any fee for taking a class for credit, if the fee is required regardless of the student's intention to transfer or not to transfer credit to CIT, the amount of the fee, and if such a fee can be waived.
21. At the end of the program, students are required to submit a transcript, certificate or official letter sent from the program to the FASA office showing that they have satisfactorily completed the program.
22. The Bishop Award cannot be used to fund work, work-oriented internships, research, self-designed study programs, or volunteer work.
23. Bishop award holders are required to be in regular email contact (weekly) with the Study Abroad Office during the academic component of the fellowship.
24. At the completion of the trip and within two weeks of the end of the program, a report must be submitted detailing the experience that includes a detailed budget, description of the program, and activities. It is the responsibility of the winner to report what they did and what they learned from his or her time abroad. Examples of such reports can be found in the Fellowships and Study Abroad Library.
25. Winners will also be required to either participate in the Bishop Information Session the following year or write an article upon their return.
26. Any independent travel proposed and awarded must be solo travel. Students should not plan to join friends and travel with them with fellowship funds.
27. Students must sign an "Acknowledgement and Assumptions of Risk Form upon accepting the fellowship.
28. Winners must be prepared to make last minute changes in case of program cancellations, changing travel restrictions, or rising health concerns. The fellowship may be rolled over to the following year if eligibility still permits and student is not graduating, still in good academic standing, not on leave, etc.
29. Recipients will need to be able to show proof of full vaccination and booster at least one month before departure.
