- Students do not select a college but are able to express their desired college in their interviews
- Not all Colleges support all options
- Students live, eat and do some supervisions in their colleges
- Students will have a single room
- There is no food plan, each student will be given food money to pay for meals while abroad
- All colleges offer a formal dinner several nights each week
 - These dinners are unique to Cambridge
 - Students must wear a college gown while dining with nice clothes underneath
 - You may only attend in your own college unless invited by a student from that college

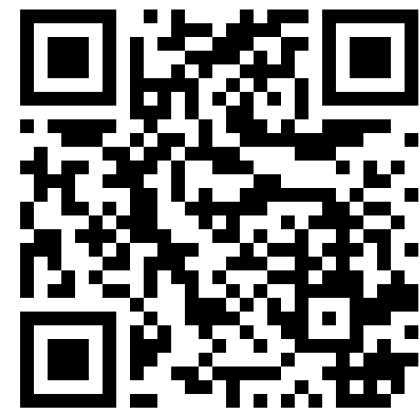

CLASSES

- Classes are not taught in the college but on a campus that is 1 to 2 miles away from your college depending on your option
- There is bus system that you can use to get to your classes
- Each student will be assigned a Director of Studies who is a fellow at your college who oversees your academic progress, arranges your supervisions, and advises you on course and module choices.
- Lecture classes usually are quite large having hundreds of students in them
